Hi Rick,

From what I have seen with similar projects, they do not appear to be putting a protective coating on them.

Below are some interesting reads on the topic. My experience with various products is too limited to make a recommendation.

This was an interesting article from the Getty: http://www.getty.edu/conservation/publications_resources/newsletters/18_2/feature.html

Hi Everyone,

Just wanted to give you all the heads up that our youth program started their public art project today. They are painting utility boxes along the Figueroa corridor. If you see their designs, please don't paint them or cite my students. I have attached for you the original request letter as well as DOT's approval.

Let me know if you have any additional questions.
